Feedback on team dynamics:

1. How effectively did your group work? (List at least 3 things)

- We kept the project vision consistent across iterations

- Work was divided by feature area, which gave people clear ownership

- Team members contributed across frontend, backend, testing, design, and documentation

- Collaboration was strong when integrating multi-layer features

2. Were the behaviors of any of your team members particularly valuable or detrimental to the team? Explain. (List at least 3 things)

- Clear ownership of stories and subtasks was very valuable

- Good communication between frontend, backend, and database work helped reduce confusion

- Team members who kept documentation and testing updated added a lot of value

- At times, integration-heavy tasks showed that coordination needed to happen earlier

- In later stages, inconsistent tracking and cross-layer communication created extra work

3. What did you learn about working in a group from this project that you will carry into your next group experience? (List at least 3 things)

- Clear communication is essential when features depend on multiple people

- Strong task ownership helps keep progress steady

- Integration should be discussed early, not only after separate parts are finished

- Documentation and tracking should be updated continuously

- A stable shared vision makes teamwork more effective

- Group success depends on coordination, not just individual coding effort
